Franckiewicz leads, Randolph concedes

BY DENA BISNETTE
There may not be a run-off election for the District 46 State Senate seat because the second-place candidate, Terrell Randolph, has conceded.

Randolph, who got 17 percent of the vote, announced the concession at about 5 p.m. Wednesday after conferring with the Secretary of State's office and front-runner Victor Franckiewicz Jr., who led with 47 percent.

The conceding candidate said he will go to Jackson today to make his withdrawal from the race formal. However, he is not sure it will prevent a run-off.

He said information he received in a call to the Secretary of State's office indicated that the third-running candidate, Jerry Medford, could be offered the opportunity to go against Franckiewicz in the run-off.

"We'll have something definitive on it within the next few days," said Lloyd Gray of the Secretary of State's Office. He said they have no confirmation at this point, but it appeared on Wednesday that the State Attorney General will allow the third place candidate to run.

Medford, who ran as a Republican, said he would discuss the matter with party officials. He said he could not afford to run if he paid the expenses himself.

However, if the party thinks he has a chance and if he can obtain enough party support, he will consider running.

Randolph said he expects to get more information about that possibility today, but still plans to concede.

"My reason is (Franckiewicz's) insurmountable lead," he said.

The factors he considered in his decision include the expense to the district of conducting a run-off, additional campaign expenses for the candidates and the fact that the race would be the only one in Harrison County and the Ocean Springs area.

Hancock County has one other race, a run-off for East District constable between Leo Ladner and George Burleson.

"That lead would take a multi-media blitz to overcome," said Randolph.

"I'm not going to let my ego stand in the way of common sense."

Supervisors approve emergency accounts

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has decided to establish petty cash accounts for three agencies to make emergency purchases easier.

Chancery Clerk E. Michael Necaic and Board Attorney Gerald Gex told the supervisors Monday that they had discussed the matter with the State Auditor's Office at a meeting in Jackson in order to be certain that establishing such accounts would be an acceptable procedure.

According to Gex, the matter is not specifically addressed by statute. However, the State Audit Department has been allowing petty cash accounts in order to avoid delays which would occur under the county's usual purchasing procedures if a purchase were necessary on a weekend.

The accounts are being established for the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, Civil Defense Department and Road and Bridge Departments.

The amount of the accounts are limited but Necaic said they would cover necessary items such as small repairs to law enforcement vehicles.

The courthouse is closed Friday in observance of Veteran's Day. The next board meeting will be 9 a.m. Wednesday.

Aldermen request more info on possible ASRM effects

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Waveland Board of Aldermen has voted to ask Mississippi's congressional delegation for more information about the Advanced Solid Rocket Motor project planned for John C. Stennis Space Center.

Acting on a motion from Alderman Barbara Rappold, the board agreed to send letters to delegation members as well as state pollution control officials to try to find out more about the ASRM.

Alderman Stella Frilot, who seconded the motion, said she is concerned by recent publicity on possible adverse environmental effects of the project and is against having it here until more is known.

One of Frilot's concerns was the possibility of adverse effects on the large number of elderly residents of Waveland, particularly those with respiratory ailments.

The board approved the motion unanimously, with the exception of Bob Hubbard, who was absent.

Murphy dismissed as Bay Police chief

BY D.C. HARVILL
Bay St. Louis Police Chief Ray Murphy has been relieved of his position.

Mayor Edward A. "Eddie" Favre, who took office in July, cited a conflict of philosophies when asked about the termination Wednesday.

Murphy counters that the mayor does not have a philosophy and plans to make his grievances public.

"When I took office I said I would give everyone (the city's employees at that time) an opportunity to adapt to this administration's philosophies. I haven't seen that happen with Ray. I've seen no change," Favre said.

"This is not a spur of the moment decision; it took a lot of thinking and a lot of concern went into it," he said.

Unlike other city employees, department heads are not covered by the city's civil service system. The system establishes a procedure through which employees may appeal dismissal.

"He has no recourse as far as I know. The way the law reads, dismissal is at the discretion of the mayor." To hire a replacement requires (city) council approval, to fire doesn't," Favre said.

The mayor refused to elaborate on his reasons for dismissing Murphy.

The chief will be allowed to exercise his vacation time and personal days to remain employed until the end of December, according to Favre.

Murphy, who was hired as chief four and a-half years ago, during Victor Franckiewicz Jr.'s administration, said the mayor asked for his resignation Monday.

"I told him no—he would have to fire me," Murphy said.

According to the chief, Favre gave him three reasons for the termination: the police department was spending over the budget, his (Murphy's) attitude and for failing to enforce the city's new loitering ordinance.

"He wants me to harass those people (at the corner of St. Francis and Sycamore Streets) but I'm not going to do it. Those people have rights just like everybody else," Murphy said.

Murphy said he will request a public hearing before the city council.

"He has the right to fire me because I am not protected by civil service, but I have the right to be given the reasons why—his reasons are bull," Murphy said.

"He doesn't want a police chief; he wants a political puppet. But I am not going to sacrifice my integrity and that of my family to serve his political purposes," he said.

RAY MURPHY

"I've known Ray for a long time. It might be easier if he were an enemy but he's not. I've just made a decision I think is best for the department and the city," Favre said.

The mayor said he does not have a replacement in mind but "I'm sure my phone will begin ringing."

When asked about the chief's dismissal Bay Police officers decline comment Wednesday afternoon.

"We aren't going to touch this one with a 20-foot pole," one of them said.

Botched drug deal ends in four arrests

BY D.C. HARVILL
A drug deal turned sour resulted in the arrests of four people Sunday evening when one of them called the Hancock County Sheriff's Department to report the other subjects were attempting to rob him.

Tony D. Young, 23, of Semmes, Ala.; Melissa L. Jackson, 22, of Eight Mile, Ala.; and Paul D. Gomillion, 24, of Mobile allegedly met Kenneth Vogel, 24, of River Ridge, La., in the parking lot of a Diamondhead business to purchase Ecstasy tablets, according to Investigator Glen Strong.

When the Alabama trio attempted to pay for the narcotics they gave Vogel a "Hollywood roll," a wad of money with large bills on the outside but only small bills on the inside, according to Strong.

"It looks like a lot of money but it's really not," Strong said.

Apparently, the Alabama residents had "done business" with Vogel in the past and thought he trusted them, the investigator said.

Vogel, however, discovered the ruse and refused to sell them the tablets for the sum they gave him.

When Vogel refused them the drugs, they attempted to take them from him and he began shouting for help. He then called the Sheriff's Department to report that someone was trying to rob him, according to the investigator.

"Upon investigating the case, we found it was a drug deal gone sour," Strong said.

Two vehicles, $1165 in cash and 300 Ecstasy tablets valued at between $45,000 and $6,000 were confiscated during the arrests.

Young, Jackson and Gomillion have been charged with conspiracy to possess a controlled substance and are incarcerated in the Hancock County Justice Facility in lieu of $5,000 bond each.

Vogel has been charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute and conspiracy to sell a controlled substance. His bond has been set at $10,000.

Assisting in the arrests were Deputies George Burleson, Clay Sick, Kenneth Hurt and Bill Pepperman, Investigator Nathan Hoda and Sheriff Ronnie Peterson. Strong is in charge of the investigation.

THE TAKE—Hancock County Sheriff's Investigator Glen Strong displays items confiscated in a drug bust at Diamondhead Sunday evening. Three Louisiana residents and an Alabama resident were arrested and two automobiles, $1165 in cash and 300 Ecstasy tablets were confiscated. (Echo staff photo by D.C. Harvill)

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The Hawks of Hancock North Central will host the Laurel Tornados in the South District 4-A playoffs Friday night.

The Hawks have played good football this season and could continue in the state's playoffs with the entire squad giving a 100% performance.

From what I have heard, Laurel is a large team and could be a stumbling block for Hancock if they are not careful.

I wish Coach Irving Favre, his coaching staff and players the best on Friday night.

I know there will be an overflow of Hawk supporters in the stands, giving the local squad encouragement.

Veterans Day will be celebrated in Hancock County on Friday in Bay St. Louis and Saturday in Waveland.

The Bay St. Louis annual Veterans Day parade will begin at 10 a.m. at the Middle School, Carroll Avenue and end at Bay City Hall.

Bay Mayor Edward Favre will be the guest speaker following the parade on Friday. A Memorial Service will follow at the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139's home on Green Meadow Road. Refreshments will follow.

Chief Warrant Officer 4th Class Karen Wilson of the Naval Oceanographic Office at the John C. Stennis Space Center will be the guest speaker at the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post No. 77's home in Waveland on Saturday.

The Waveland parade will begin at 10 a.m. at the Terrace Avenue entrance to the post's parking area.

I hope there will be a large turnout for the Veterans Day parades both in Bay St. Louis on Friday and in Waveland on Saturday.

Veterans Day 1989

By Bill Moran

Today the United States is experiencing a remarkable time of peace and decreased international tensions. Whenever that happens, it is easy to forget that the peace we enjoy, the freedoms we take for granted and the liberties we treasure so much have been guaranteed for more than 200 years by men and women who have served with honor in the uniform of our country.

They are honored every November 11 in solemn ceremonies at military bases and federal cemeteries. Speakers tell us of the selfless sacrifice that ensures our prosperity, but each of us needs to pause on this Veterans Day weekend to think about what service to our country means.

We do not honor only those who died for their country—although we surely do honor them. The purpose of Veterans Day is to celebrate the part of our national character that has compelled millions of our best and brightest young men and women to put their national lives ahead of their personal ones.

Few other countries in the world could ever staff a military without a draft or other form of compulsory service. The United States has since the mid-1970's.

Few other countries can look at an all volunteer force with the pride this country does. As citizens we rest assured that the military is there, and when they are needed, they will serve.

It is, perhaps, our faith in our defense that causes us to forget that the country's sons and daughters are serving without much fanfare in spots from Maine to the DMZ in Korea. They serve aboard aircraft carriers and at remote missile locations every day and night. The fact that we don't think of them much is a sign that they are doing their jobs well.

The holiday period that is approaching us is a happy time for most of us, but it can be a melancholy time for service members. They don't picket or protest or point their fingers at themselves for recognition. Chances are most of them will serve one or two tours then come back and hope to find a job in the civilian world they have been protecting.

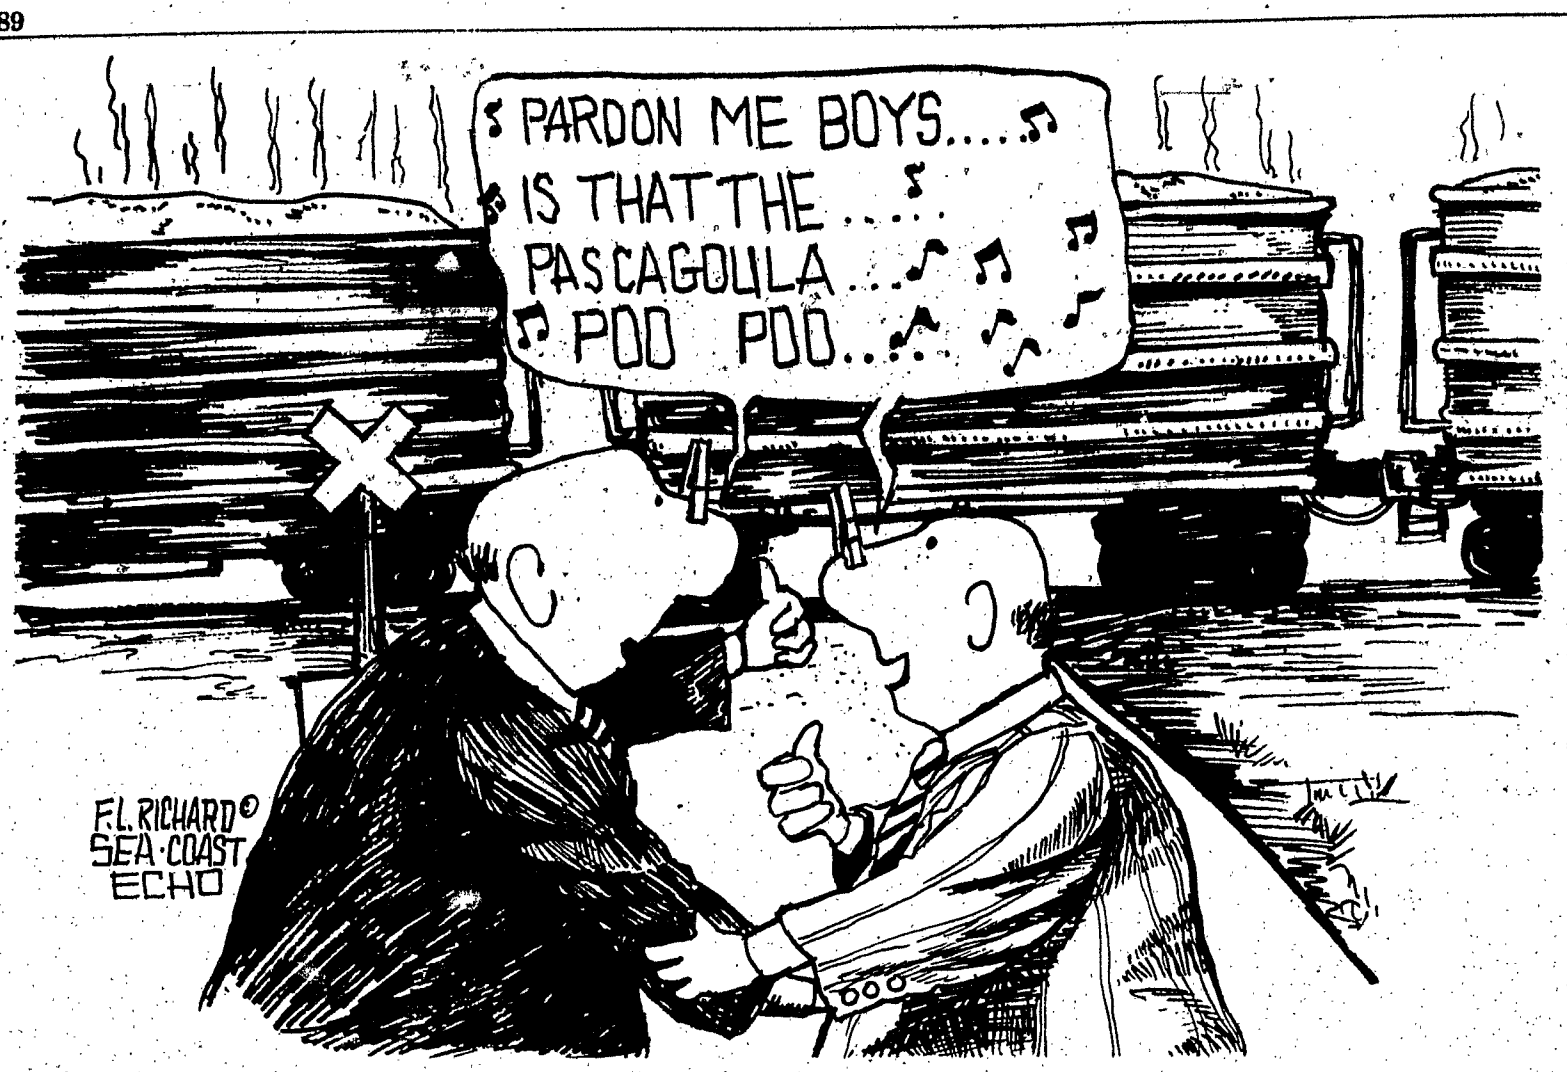

But, we shouldn't have to wait for them to call attention to themselves. Starting with Veterans Day, November 11, a day that marked the end of the first great 20th Century War, let's thank those men and women in uniform who do so much so that we can enjoy ourselves.

In wartime this nation has a great tradition of appreciating military service. Now that we do not have the horrible specter of war threatening so much, should we not feel the same? Surely, if we are not strong, we would not be so safe. If we were not secure, we would not be at peace. And if the men and women in the Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force and Coast Guard were not doing their jobs, we would not be strong, and we would not be secure.

Because there are no such impending threats to our nation's security, this free and proud nation can afford to turn its attention to the scourge of drugs and the problems of homelessness, poverty and illiteracy that can eat at our fabric.

Our veterans have paid for our security with their toil, their blood, and sometimes their lives. We owe them so much more than we can ever give.

Thank you for keeping us free.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Veterans Day 1989— from 'A Moment of Peace'

An eerie but welcome silence crept across European battlefields. A heartening calm enveloped the Western Front of World War I as both sides placed rifles aside in acknowledgment of a cease-fire. Peace. Momentary, as it would turn out, but peace just the same.

From the relatively tranquil scene of 71 years ago, a tradition grew, a tradition of embracing our defenders with respect and appreciation, of rendering tribute to their feats through public ceremony. Armistice Day and Veterans Day, it would later be called. The eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month.

While to many the term "veteran" likely invokes images of fighting and bloodshed, of suffering and struggle, it is most synonymous with peace. Without those who have been willing to step forward to stand vigil over peace at considerable sacrifice and risk, there would be none.

Peace, though, is more than just an absence of war or a society quietly going about its business. It is far more complex. True peace involves the right of a people to nurture ideals, to effect their destinies, and to wield their freedoms unimpeded. Peace is independence, a golden commodity millions seek to obtain.

There is a new wind blowing around the world. We've felt it in the continuing flight of East German refugees from oppression. We've witnessed it through the intrepid stand of Chinese citizens in Beijing's Tiananmen Square. We've seen it in the obstinacy of freedom fighters in Nicaragua. We've felt it in the courage of Baltic citizens of the Soviet Union... defiantly demanding their freedom. What they seek is what we Americans possess and often take for granted.

Even Americans stand at the edge of a precarious peace, and nothing threatens our footing more than apathy toward our defenders. Our democracy rests upon a foundation of their courage and selflessness. In moments of solitude, sacrifice and pain, they never forgot us. In our moments of adversity, as well as prosperity, we must never forget them.

Veterans Day, November 11, is an occasion to proclaim to the world our immeasurable pride in a heritage of struggle for an objective of peace. On November 11, step back and take a look at your freedoms. Listen to the stillness of a day that originated from a moment of peace long ago and thank a veteran. They have left us quite an inheritance.

NASA critics misinformed on solid rocket test project

To the Editor:

There is lots of misinformation going around about the Advanced Solid Rocket Motor (ASRM) testing at the NASA Stennis Space Center.

In the ASRM Environmental Impact Statement, NASA management has legally bound themselves to follow rigid test specifications required to meet the Congressional Clean Air Act and assure there will be no harmful residual pollutants.

Apparently, the critics do not understand that because they continue to ask, "Who is responsible?" They obviously don't want the testing done here under any conditions. They fail to see that when testing is begun, if required specs cannot be met, testing will be stopped.

On the other hand, if the NASA study is correct and the testing can be done with no adverse effects—NASA will be happy because they will be using the facility for what it was designed. And our local economy will be greatly enhanced.

But since I have never heard of a single complaint from many years of solid propellant testing at Huntsville, Ala., and many years of launching solids at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida and several more years of testing in the state of Utah, it appears the critics cannot be right.

It is obvious that NASA is acting responsibly as is demonstrated by their legal commitment. I wish the critics could be as responsible as NASA.

It appears that some of the individual critics may have a financial self interest behind their vendetta.

We can look to the early sixties when NASA said they had the technology to put a man on the moon and return him safely.

Critics said that was impossible.

We now know NASA proved to be right.

NASA now says they have the technology to safely test fire the ASRM without harmful effects to the ecology.

I say, "go for it NASA, you have earned my trust."

Waveland American Legion Post 77 celebrates Veterans Day with parade

Veterans Day will be celebrated on Saturday, Nov. 11, by Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray Post 77, the American Legion, Waveland, with a parade followed by ceremonies in the post home on Coleman Avenue.

The parade will start at 10 a.m. at the Terrace Avenue entrance to the post parking area. It will proceed down Terrace to Beach Boulevard and turn right to Coleman Avenue and turn right again and go to Central Avenue.

It will then turn right and go to Terrace and turn right on Terrace and return to the post home for the ceremonies inside.

The principal speaker will be Chief Warrant Officer 4th Class Karen Wilson who has served 26 years in the U.S. Navy and whose present assignment is

Youth Court announces new staff

Judge Michael D. Haas of the Hancock County Youth Court announces the addition of two new staff members, Lawrence (Larry) Thompson, counselor, and Mrs. Cecilia (Ce Ce) Beebe, clerk typist, seipior.

Thompson earned a bachelor's degree in social welfare and a master's degree in community counseling while attending the University of Wisconsin. He now resides with his wife, Tina, in Pass Christian.

"We are happy to benefit from Mr. Thompson's educational background, and we feel that his past work experience will prove to be an asset in our continuing efforts to better serve the citizens of Hancock County," said Haas.

Thompson also enjoys sailing, photography, tennis, baseball, traveling and music.

Mrs. Beebe was educated while attending Dominican High and Cabrini High in New Orleans and has taken sociology courses at Delgado College. Cecilia now resides with her husband David Beebe in Waveland.

Aside from devoting her time and energy to the Youth Court, she is involved in several Catholic organizations. She is the first grade CCD instructor at Our Lady of The Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis and is also a member of the choir.

She is also an active member of the St. Vincent de Paul Society at St. Clare Church in Waveland and along with her husband, chairs the committee on recycling there.

"The Youth Court is happy to have two such dedicated employees added to our staff," said Haas.

Bay Legion's Veterans Day parade set Friday

The annual Veterans Day parade sponsored by Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139, Bay St. Louis, will be held on Friday beginning at 10 a.m.

The parade will form at 9:30 a.m. on Carroll Avenue at the Middle School, (Bay Junior High), John Wilkerson, parade chairman said.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Edward Favre will give the keynote address following the parade at City Hall.

Richard Brehm, post commander stated, "The annual Veteran's Day parade will be held on Friday in order to have participation from local high schools, which has been a tradition for many years."

The parade route will be Carroll Avenue to Beach Boulevard; Beach to Main Street; Main to Second Street; and Second to Bay City Hall.

Several area school bands, students, citizens and marching groups will join Veterans and Auxiliary members in the parade.

"All residents are urged to participate in the tribute to America's veterans," Brehm stated.

Following the City Hall ceremonies, there will be a memorial service for deceased veterans at the Post's Home on Green Meadow Road.

Refreshments will be served in the Legion home at approximately noon following all the services.

Drivers asked for caution during Beach Road repair

BY DENA RISNETTE

Motorists using Beach Road should exercise caution while repair work is in progress.

County Maintenance Superintendent Sam Cuevas explained that the road is currently being milled from Buccaneer State Park to Washington Street.

The milling process removes the old surface to prepare the road for new pavement. The process results in loose material on the roadway, so Cuevas suggests speeds of no more than 20 to 25 miles per hour.

The present Beach Road project involves surface repair only. Drainage improvements will be scheduled along with sand beach replenishment.

sense, I never was on an ego trip to be senator. I wanted to be a part of the senate because of what is going on in education right now," Randolph stated.

He explained that he was delighted to discover during his campaign that the educational issues he supports, as well as Governor Ray Mabus' general support for further educational reforms, is backed by grassroots support from people of almost every socio-economic class.

Randolph would not state whether he plans to run in future senate races, but said he is ready to get back to his job as Hancock County Superintendent of Education.

In addition, Frankiewicz has asked him to act as an advisor regarding educational matters.

"It was a very noble gesture on his part," said Frankiewicz. "I was really moved by his feelings of concern for the taxpayers and the expense a run-off would cause the county."

Frankiewicz said he had feared an extremely low turnout if a run-off were conducted.

He also commented that he was "very happy" with how he fared in Tuesday's election and said he felt he had received more support from the rural areas than he had expected.

"I got my backing from a lot of ordinary folks who came out and supported my campaign and I feel I really owe my victory to them," Frankiewicz commented.

In the other two races on Tuesday's ballot, former District Attorney Cono Caranna resumed the office he lost to Glenn Cannon in the last regular election for that post, while Jean Dorsey was unopposed for a post on the Hancock County Election Commission.

FAYRE BENEFIT

The location of a benefit Saturday for cancer victim Larry "Fox" Favre has been changed to Kenny Ray Ladner's Arena on Lower Bay Road. The benefit begins at 10 a.m. and will continue through the day.

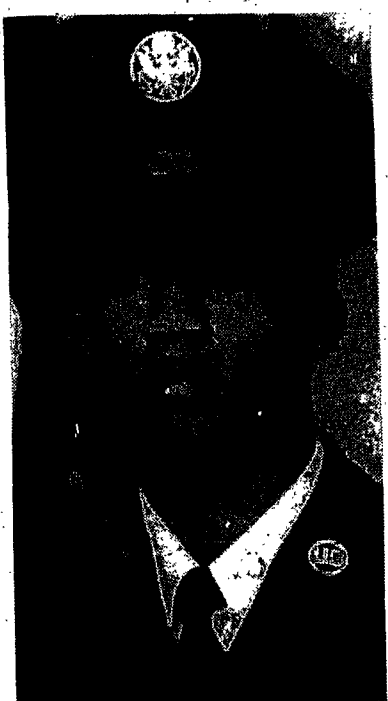

LITTLE THEATRE

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's general membership meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Boardman Avenue Playhouse.

In proposing language for the letters, Mayor John Longo Jr. stated that the officials being contacted should be asked to "send immediately information to city hall, to the board of aldermen, proving that this is not hazardous to our environment."

The board's next meeting, Nov. 22, has been moved up to 6 p.m. due to the Thanksgiving holiday. All subsequent board meetings have been moved to 6:30 p.m. unless otherwise announced.

MILITARY MENTION

SSGT RABOTEAU

Staff Sergeant Richard G. Raboteau, son of Alfred and Ophelia Raboteau of 434 St. John Street, Bay St. Louis, was recently selected Non Commissioned Officer for June. Also, Raboteau was selected NCO for the Quarter (April-June).

Raboteau is presently stationed at Andrews Air Force Base, Maryland. He is an air cargo/passenger service specialist.

Raboteau's duties include support of the President on his departure and arrival on Air Force One. He also provides support to congressional leaders and heads of state for this nation and foreign.

Raboteau is going on a temporary duty assignment for seven days to Germany, Spain, Pakistan and Saudi Arabia.

He is a 1981 graduate of Bay Senior High School and was an employee of The Sea Coast Echo.

Raboteau is married to the former Diedra Mitchell of Willingboro, N.J. and has an 18-month-old son, Richard Jr.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1989-1B

Time Out

By Dena Bisnette

Local football, with the exception of the Hancock North Central Hawks who will face Laurel in the opening of a play-off series Friday, is finished for this year.

Now it's basketball season. Pearl River Community College opened its men's season Monday night, while the Lady Wildcats open tonight with a three-day tournament in Panola, Texas.

Hancock North Central, where the men are coached by Dennis Peterson and the women are headed by Debbie Triplett, will be playing in the Division 8, 4-A classification. Both teams were district champion runner-ups last year, but they lost three starters each to graduation.

St. Stanislaus, coached by Chuck Genin, is also classed as 4-A and had a 19-9 record last year. Three of the Rock-A-Chaws five starters are back this year.

Bay High, a smaller school that fits into the 3-A class, is coached by Michael Ladner, who has four of last year's starters returning. The Tigerettes have a new coach, Dennis Barcelona, but also have four starters returning.

The high schools will start playing this coming week. It ought to be an interesting season here in Hancock County.

The 12th annual Crab Bowl Saturday night resulted in a win for the Hancock North Central eighth graders, who trounced St. John 30-0.

Matt Harmon, who contributed four touchdowns for the Hawks, was named Most Valuable Offensive Player. Defensive MVP was Daniel McGuire.

Congratulations to both young men and to the team, which finished with a 7-1 record this year.

Soccer has also started. Take One Video's Under-12 girls opened their season this past weekend by playing in a select tournament at Vicksburg. Coach Bernard Tuse said they did well, particularly since they are only a recreational team and not a select team.

The girls tied one game 1-1, lost one 4-2 and lost their third game 1-0, and Tusa said he's looking forward to a good season.

Our Lady Academy's Crescents open their soccer season Wednesday with a game against Resurrection of Pascagoula.

Gametime is 5:30 p.m. at St. Stanislaus Stadium and any BAYS soccer team which comes to the game in uniform and accompanied by a coach will be given a 50 percent discount on admission.

Gulf Coast Community Hospital and Gulf Oaks Hospital and Clinic are sponsoring a 10K health run and 5K walk Saturday, beginning at the hospital at 8:30 a.m.

Gulf Coast Running Club, which is serving as host, will accept race day registration beginning at 7 a.m. Fee is $12 on race day or $8 for the no T-shirt option.

For those who are familiar with the club's usual prizes, which include trophies and medallions, the prizes in this one are a little different. For this event, they include cash and merchandise certificates.

For more information, call Dick Fields at 388-6711 from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. today or Friday or call Linda Sullivan at 832-6071.

Bay High's Student Council will host an all-girl football jamboree tonight from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. at J.D. McCulloch Stadium. The event will benefit the Hancock County Food Pantry.

There will be three games, featuring the Burger King Pantherettes (10th grade) against the Pizza Hut Lionettes (ninth grade) in the first match-up; the Dominos Pizza Tigerettes (12th grade) against the McDonald Cougarettes (11th grade) in the second game; and a play-off in the third.

The event ought to feature some neat little side-shows, with male cheerleaders, the Bay High Band and the debut of a new group, Tiger Paws.

(It's pouring as I write this, so I hope the jamboree isn't rained out. If it is, a new date will be chosen, but that information wasn't available by presstime.)

(If it stops raining by Sunday,) Cycles Plus Bicycle Club has its "Red Bluff Ride" scheduled to begin at 6 a.m. Riders will meet at Choctaw Plaza (Kmart) in Waveland.

Be ready to ride about 40 miles over rolling to hilly terrain, and if you're a shutter bug as well as a cycling enthusiast, bring your camera because I hear the area is a great place to take pictures.

The Sea Coast Echo thanks everybody who has contributed to Time Out and wishes to remind new contributors that items for this column must be submitted by Tuesday afternoon for publication by the following Thursday.

Short items may be submitted by telephoning Dena Bisnette at 467-5474, can be dropped off at the Echo office or mailed to P.O. Box 2009, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520. Please include your telephone number in case we need more information.

Hancock to host first play-off, battle with Laurel's Tornados

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock North Central's Hawks will host the first game of the State Class 4-A Play-offs Friday, facing the Golden Tornados from Laurel.

Hawk Head Coach Irvin Favre said the size of the Tornados is likely to be the biggest factor the Hawks will have to overcome in order to win the game.

He said that last week about the Harrison Central Red Rebels, the Division VIII 5-A champions the Hawks defeated 9-0 in their last regular season game.

"Harrison Central was BIG; these people are BIGGER," said Favre.

Laurel, which made it into the 4-A State series last year but was knocked out of the competition by West Point, will definitely be the largest team the Hawks have faced this year.

"They're very big on defense. They run what we call a 4-4, with four men across the front, and their two inside tackles weigh 350 and 300. They're huge," the coach said.

"Our offensive line is pushing 200, but these people have defensive ends who weigh 215 and 200. They're just big up front."

Laurel has a 6-4 record, but four of those wins were shut-outs Favre attributed at least partially to the size of the Tornado defense. Their losses were to Meridian, which is ranked in the top two of the state, and powerhouses like Hattiesburg. Offensively, Favre said the Tornados are "not a difficult football team."

"They pretty much play in the style everybody up there uses," he reported after watching films of the Tornados in action. "They run two-tight ends and generally stick with the I-formation. They're power-oriented and like to run right at you."

The Hawks got a taste of that style in their only defeat this season. HANCOCK PAGE 2B

Bay Tigers have high hopes for championship hoop season

Special to the Echo

By Tommy Bergeron

"District title," "South State play-offs," "State play-offs": these phrases have been buzzing around Bay High since June 2 of last year.

Coach Michael Ladner, in his third year of coaching high school basketball at Bay High, is steadily rebuilding the Tiger basketball program.

There was a bit of improvement in the Tiger team last year, going from five wins in 1987 to seven wins in 1988. Ladner has always scheduled tough opponents each year and this year is no exception.

With a team posting six seniors, four juniors and one sophomore, the Tigers will indeed face another rough schedule.

Opening on Nov. 14 against Iberville, the Tigers will take aim on their first win on the road against the Class 4-A Warriors.

Not to mention the Tigers' participation in four tournaments including their very own tournament Dec. 14-16, Bay High will face defending Class 5-A champion Gulfport, Class 4-A champion Stone County, district powers Ocean Springs and Vancleave and the always dangerous Pearl River Central Blue Devils.

In addition to those games, the road gets longer as the Tigers travel to Denham Springs, La., to play that school for the very first time.

Returning to the varsity line-up from last year's squad are seniors Tommy Bergeron, Bruce Jones, Micah Necaise, Will Seymour and Cedric Walker. Juniors James Mayfield, Mike Sharp, Calvin Thigpen and David Weems also add to the arsenal of the Tiger team.

Newcomers to the varsity team are senior Gene Gibson and sophomore Peter Scafidi.

Coach Ladner commented on the upcoming season.

B team Raiders top Bens Ford

The Coast Episcopal High School Raider B team scored a victory Tuesday night against the B team from Bens Ford Academy in Bogalusa, La.

Coach Jack Hutchison said the game could have gone either way with the score flip-flopping back and forth during the last two minutes of the game. The Raiders won the contest, 36-35.

This young, inexperienced team was determined to win and played a very aggressive game said Hutchison.

High scorer for the Raiders was sophomore Paul Bernadas in his first basketball game ever with 25 points. Eighth grader Les Albritton, also in his first game, scored four points and was very successful capturing rebounds.

Other Raider B team players are sophomore Regan Kane, freshman Nathan Guice, eighth grader Douglas Grant, and seventh graders Bobby Garrett, Tim Gormley, Marty Vander-Noot and Terry Welch.

The next Raider B team game is against Marrero Academy at home on Monday, Nov. 13, in the CEHS gym on Espy Avenue. Tip-off is at 5 p.m.

Varsity Raiders lose opener

The Coast Episcopal High School Raiders lost their opener 38-32 to Bens Ford Academy from Bogalusa, La. last Tuesday night.

The lead flip-flopped many times during the game with the halftime advantage going to Bens Ford 18 to 16. The third quarter score was 26-21 Raiders. The Raiders led in the fourth quarter 32-26 until the last three minutes of the game.

Raider coach Jack Hutchison said the difference in the game was the Raiders' inability to make the easy shots at the end. Bens Ford scored the last 12 unanswered points of the game in those last three minutes, said Hutchison.

Outstanding players for the Raiders were senior Jamie White with nine points and 11 rebounds and Hutson Lambert with six rebounds.

Freshman Tyrone Jones played well in his first high school game as well as sophomore Paul Bernadas, said

Hutchison.

Other members of the Raider team are seniors Scott Covode and Billy Guice, sophomore Chris Painter and freshman Nathan Guice.

The Raiders play their first Mississippi Private School South 1A district game this Saturday night against Pinehills Academy in Gloster. Their next home game is against Marrero Academy Monday night at the CEHS gym on Espy Avenue. Tip-off time is at 5 p.m.

CRAB BOWL WINNERS—Hancock North Central seventh and eighth grade team finished the football season Saturday by claiming victory in the annual Crab Bowl. The team defeated St. John, 32-0, allowing them a 7-1 record for the

Lady Raiders rebuild under new coach

The Coast Episcopal High School Lady Raiders opened their 1989-90 basketball season Tuesday night against Bens Ford Christian Academy from Bogalusa, La. The Lady Raiders lost 31 to 10 on a slippery, slidy gym floor, wet due to the bad weather.

Under new basketball coach,

Mike Spell, the Lady Raiders are in a rebuilding program.

Spell, originally from Picayune, has only one returning player, freshman Megan Uram.

Spell says all the players are very dedicated and willing to learn. He says he is very impressed at how far the players have come in just two weeks of practice.

All of the players are young and inexperienced, including Uram, Spell said. Last Tuesday, Uram was high scorer for the Lady Raiders with five points and Christy Shilling was high scorer for Bens Ford with 10 points.

Other members of the Lady Raider team are freshman Missy Mizell, sophomore Ashley Taylor, juniors Katherine Parsel and Rebecca Thompson and senior Jennifer Burkett. Eighth grader Miriam Sal-loun will play both varsity and junior varsity. Other junior varsity players are eighth graders Lauren Bentz, Brooke Shultz, Whitney Eastman, Mary Gholson and Veronica Colby and seventh graders Amy Dedeaux and Anna Coggin.

The Lady Raiders play their first Mississippi State Private School South 1A district game on Saturday against Pinehills Academy in Gloster, Miss.

How to catch bass in river current

With many of today's bass tournaments being conducted on river systems, anglers face a new challenge in their attempts to locate largemouths. That challenge is current, and it plays a major role in fish location patterns.

"Largemouth, in contrast to smallmouth bass, are not truly current-oriented," explains Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff member Ken Cook. "The fish prefer to live out of the main barges can offer this protection, says Cook. The area doesn't need to be very large, either, to hold one or more fish.

"A lot of river fishing simply involves moving from one protected spot to another, which you can do easily because the fish are shallow and you can fish quickly."

Cook's favorite lure in river current is a plastic grub, although he also likes small spinnerbaits, plastic worms, and occasionally a minnow-imitation plug.

"The grub is really effective," he says, "because it looks like something that would get washed downstream in the current. I often rig a grub like a plastic worm, too, with a light slip sinker and the hook imbedded to make it weedless."

"Then, I cast slightly upstream of my target and let the current wash the lure into the eddy where I think the bass are. If the fish are present, they usually hit pretty fast, because they're opportunistic feeders and look for an easy meal like this."

On large rivers, sandbars frequently form along the insides of bends, and these bars may offer not only a break from the current but also deeper water, as well. Cook's advice in fishing sandbars is to study them first with a depthfinder to determine water depth, then explore them with a plastic worm, grub or possibly a shallow crankbait.

"One thing to remember about fishing behind sandbars," says Cook, "is that bass move back and forth on them periodically. You may fish for 30 minutes without a strike, then catch five bass in five casts. After that, you may go 30 more minutes before your next strike."

"Make sure you visit a spot like this several times during the day."

"I am looking forward to the upcoming year of basketball," he said. "We have a group of seniors and juniors who have spent many hours together the past two years in preparation for this season and we are hoping for good things to happen."

Ladner added comments regarding certain goals he is looking toward this season.

"We have goals that we have set for ourselves; however, our ultimate goal is to give all we have to give physically, mentally and emotionally. We want to put a team on the floor that our students and supporters look forward to watching on game night and are proud to say 'that's our basketball team'."

There is a positive view on the year's season. Some fans have already made plans to be at the Tiger Dome on Feb. 21, the date of the first game of the South State play-offs. The fans know there is nothing more that the Tigers would like to do than take the district title and advance to South State competition.

Oyster season tentatively set to open November 13

Sampling of water in the Mississippi Sound continues to determine if recent rainfall will affect what areas will be opened for oystering when Mississippi oyster season begins on Nov. 13.

Oystering check-in check-out stations will be opened at 7 a.m. and close at 4 p.m. daily while oystering activity is permitted. Oystermen must check out each day at the same station at which they checked in.

Check-in, check-out stations will be located aboard the BMR vessel Conservationist in Bayou Caddy in Hancock County, in the BMR office at the Pass Christian Harbor in Harrison County, in the BMR office on Old Stage Road in Orange Grove in Jackson County and Webb Landing on Octavia Road in Jackson County's Graveline Bayou.

John Cirino, shellfish coordinator at the state Bureau of Marine Resources, said that any or all reefs may be closed during oyster season if conditions exist that may cause oysters to become polluted, making them unfit to be eaten by humans.

Such conditions include, but are not limited to, excessive rainfall, abnormal rises in river levels, higher than normal water-bacteria counts and the presence of toxic substances.

If humans eat oysters taken from polluted waters they may contract bacteria and viruses which cause such diseases as hepatitis and cholera.

Contamination of oysters in the Sound is often caused by runoff from rainfall which brings with it higher amounts of feces.

The Bureau of Marine Resources has established a taped telephone line to give information on the opening and closing of oyster reefs in Mississippi waters. The number is 385-5902.

At its October meeting, the state Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks set the Nov. 13 opening oyster season date.

Oyster season usually opens in October, but was delayed this year because most of the oysters sampled in late September were about an inch below the legal size of three inches.

BMR officials will recommend the season be closed when most of the mature oysters have been harvested.

The commission also approved, at its October meeting, several changes in oystering regulations, including a provision which prohibits non-resident recreational oystering in Mississippi waters.

Oystermen will be given a copy of the new regulations when they purchase their oyster licenses or when they first check in at a station and will be required to sign an acknowledgement that they received the regulations.

BMR officials have been making efforts to enhance the oyster harvest throughout the year, by spreading oyster and clam shells on oyster reefs to ensure that oysters will have a hard surface on which to adhere and grow.

Cirino estimates about 20,000 sacks of oysters to be harvested this season. Last season saw the harvest of 22,000 sacks. The meat content of a sack of oysters is between five and eight pounds, Cirino said.

Environmental conditions have kept Mississippi oyster harvests small during past several years.

The last good oyster harvest in Mississippi was in the 1982-83 season when about 366,000 sacks of oysters were harvested.

A flood the following year wiped out the oyster crop, and high salinity levels have kept subsequent harvests small, Cirino said.

U.S. forests—the world's wood basket

In this final column highlighting forest products, we thought you might be interested in the following information provided by the American Forest Council.

A survey of the world's forests suggests that the U.S. is uniquely situated to become the "wood basket" of the world. The United States easily has the potential to supply its own lumber, board, pulp and paper needs while also building a surplus to help satisfy rising worldwide demand for a wide range of forest products.

In many important respects, U.S. forest land is unrivaled in the world. Roughly a third of the nation is covered by trees, which is about 70 percent of the forest land that existed here when Columbus arrived.

This amounts to approximately 737 million acres of woodland, putting U.S. forest and third in size behind the Soviet Union and Canada.

But the American forest ranks high in productivity, thanks largely to our temperate climate, favorable growing season, excellent soils and forest management expertise.

As a result, the high productivity rates of U.S. forests provide our industry with a raw material volume the size of the Soviet Union's even though that country's Siberian forest alone is twice the size of our own, and contains almost half the world's standing softwood acreage.

So while South American forests grow trees faster than U.S. forests, and the Siberian forest is larger by acreage, the combination of advantages unique to U.S. forests makes them the most productive.

The U.S. South has the highest concentration of forest industry mill capacity and employment of any region in the world. Since 1952, softwood inventories in the South have increased by 53 percent. These growth increases were possible in spite of a 46 percent increase in total harvests during the same period.

In fact, because of its high productivity the American forest actually contains more wood today than it did in 1952. Despite the population pressures and rapid urbanization of the past 35 years, our forest land has added more than 200 billion cubic feet of wood—growing from about 603 billion cu. ft. in 1952 to about 830 billion cu. ft. today.

The nation diligently replants its forests. Some 2.3 billion tree seedlings—roughly nine new trees for every American—were planted last year. (In Mississippi we planted 24 trees for every person in our state!) The forest industry alone accounts for more than half of this activity, with individual tree farmers planting another 28 percent of the total.

Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, South Carolina and Oregon are the leading tree-planting states, in that order. Mississippi is the nation's leader in number of Tree Farms with nearly 6,000.

With the application of scientific forest management techniques, genetically improved seedlings, and improved methods of disease, brush, and fire control, the United States easily has the potential to provide a surplus of forest products to meet worldwide demand.

U.S. exports of wood products are booming. Exports in 1988 topped $5.3 billion, a 35 percent increase over record-setting 1987 levels. During the first half of 1988, the U.S. exported more solid wood products than it imported—making it a net exporter. More than half of this nation's wood exports went to four Asian nations: Japan, China, Korea and Taiwan.

Thanks to a more favorable exchange rate, lower production costs and other factors, the U.S. paper industry enjoyed a record-breaking performance in 1987. Total paper and paperboard production climbed to 74 million tons—about 5 percent ahead of the 1986 high. A predicted continuing increase in demand for paper and newsprint is good news for Mississippi's paper industry.

New equipment

Post 58 Volunteer Fire Department in the Standard community has recently purchased two pieces of firefighting equipment, including a three foot, 6 h.p. volume pump and a positive pressure ventilation fan. According to Post 58, they are one of the first stations on the Coast to purchase the fan. Visitors are invited to tour the station when the doors are open.

Matching grants offered to rural firefighting groups

The Mississippi Forestry Commission expects to have approximately $50,000 in federal funds available for fiscal year 1990 for small matching grants to rural communities to assist them in obtaining needed firefighting equipment, according to an announcement recently by State Forester Robert S. "Sid" Moss.

The grants will be issued under the Rural Community

Fire Protection Program (RCFP) as authorized under PL 95-113. Grants to approved applicants are limited to a maximum of $2,000 per community.

"Communities or fire departments interested in securing one of the RCFP grants would be well advised to take prompt action in this regard," says Curt Fulgham, fire control forester for the commission.

Rural communities of under 10,000 population are eligible for the funds. In the event the expected federal funds are not received by the forestry commission, all applicants will be notified as soon as possible.

Application forms may be secured from Curt Fulgham, Fire Control Forester, Suite 300, 301 Building, Jackson, MS 39201. Completed applications must be returned by 5 p.m., Jan. 16.

Council on Aging provides services for the elderly

With the population of Mississippi living longer each year, specialized services for persons 60 years of age and older are becoming increasingly important.

The Council on Aging, Mississippi Department of Human Services, is dedicated to keeping pace with the needs of the state's older citizens and improving their quality of life.

"One of every six adults in Mississippi is over 60," said assistant director Eddie Anderson. "Our office is the designated state agency to develop, coordinate and advocate for comprehensive services for these older adults. As their numbers continue to grow, so does the need for providing specialized services."

In 1986, there were 418,000 Mississippians over the age of 60, a 31 percent increase since 1970, and persons reaching the age of 60 could expect to live an average of 22 more years. The 60-plus population is projected to increase 25 percent during the final two decades of the twentieth century.

With federal funding from the Older Americans Act, the Social Services Block Grant and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Council on Aging coordinates activities of 10 area agencies on aging located throughout the state in providing a wide range of services to elderly Mississippians. Aging programs are targeted to serve socially and economically needy senior citizens, especially low-income minorities, the frail elderly and rural older adults in Mississippi. Services include:

--The nutrition program, which provides more than 11,000 meals a day, Monday through Friday, to older adults. Meals are provided at fellowship food centers and senior centers, where fellowship with other senior citizens is available, and in their own homes through delivered meals for senior citizens in poor health or with physical limitations.

--The Senior Community Service Employment Program, which identifies employment opportunities for Mississippians, 55 and older, who are at or below the poverty level, are unemployed or underemployed and who have difficulty finding a job.

--The transportation program, which accesses nearly 300 vans and mini-buses that transport senior citizens to jobs, medical appointments, food stamp offices, social security offices, educational facilities and other important destinations.

--Legal services, providing advice, consultation or representation for older persons with legal problems.

--Case management, providing the planning, arrangement and coordination of appropriate community-based services which enable the frail elderly to remain independent as long as possible.

Case managers identify the needs of frail elderly adults through a comprehensive assessment completed in the homes of clients and follow up with development of a care plan for the elderly individual.

--In-Home Services Program, which provides housekeeping and home health services to frail elderly who are no longer able to perform the tasks. These services include routine household tasks such as cooking, cleaning, mending, grocery shopping assistance, consumer education, bathing, dressing, safety education and health and oral hygiene assistance.

--Adult day care centers that specialize in supervised care for functionally impaired elderly adults. Services are individualized, based upon an evaluation of each individual's needs and strengths.

--The Ombudsman Program, providing an avenue for linking older adults in long-term care facilities with the communities from which they came. The program serves as an advocate and friend for older Mississippians in such facilities.

For additional information on services to the elderly, contact the Council on Aging at 949-2070 or your local area agency on aging.

Muscular Dystrophy Association reopens Gulfport office at MHG

The Greater New Orleans Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) announced the re-opening of its Gulf Coast area clinic located at Memorial Hospital at Gulfport. Dr. Joe Jackson will function as clinic director.

The clinic will be one of a nationwide network of MDA-sponsored clinics and will be a part of MDA's comprehensive patient services program.

Diagnosis is available to individuals who, in the opinion of a physician, may have one of the 40 neuromuscular diseases covered by the association's medical services.

Appointments are made free of charge through the MDA office. To make an appointment or to receive additional information, contact MDA at (504) 455-4264 (collect).

MDA is striving to defeat 40 neuromuscular diseases. Some of the more common types are Duchenne muscular dystrophy, Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS), Myasthenia Gravis, Charcot, Marie Tooth and Spinal Muscular Atrophy.

MDA clinics emphasize total patient care and provide services designed to meet a wide range of needs, personal as well as medical.

Unidentified Moving Object stops in Bay for art's sake

BY D.C. HARVILL

Sculptor Suzy Daughtry is living her dream.

After working in the business world for 21 years, Daughtry has converted a 30-year-old Colonial Bread truck into a rolling piece of sculpture and is exploring the U.S., helping children create pieces of art as she goes.

Parked behind the Bay St. Louis City Hall Friday afternoon, working with three Bay Catholic Elementary students, Daughtry said she "wanted to poke around in this country to see how it really is."

She is funding the trip with her own money and with donations collected along the way.

Daughtry began her trip in her native Dothan, Ala. Oct. 17.

"Since that is where I was born and came up, I felt a real strong need to start the trip there," she said.

Daughtry Daughtry decided to make the journey a year ago, after returning to the U.S. from Mexico where she had lived for seven years. She then spent 10 months sculpting the truck, using a kind of plastic cement, into UMO (Unidentified Moving Object).

She plans to be on the road for two years and intends to concentrate on smaller towns.

The pieces of art created by the children with whom she works will become a part of the UMO Traveling Collection and will be exhibited across the nation. Daughtry's only stipulation is that the children write to her on her trip. She, in turn, will write to them to keep them informed about showings of their art and to share ideas, she said.

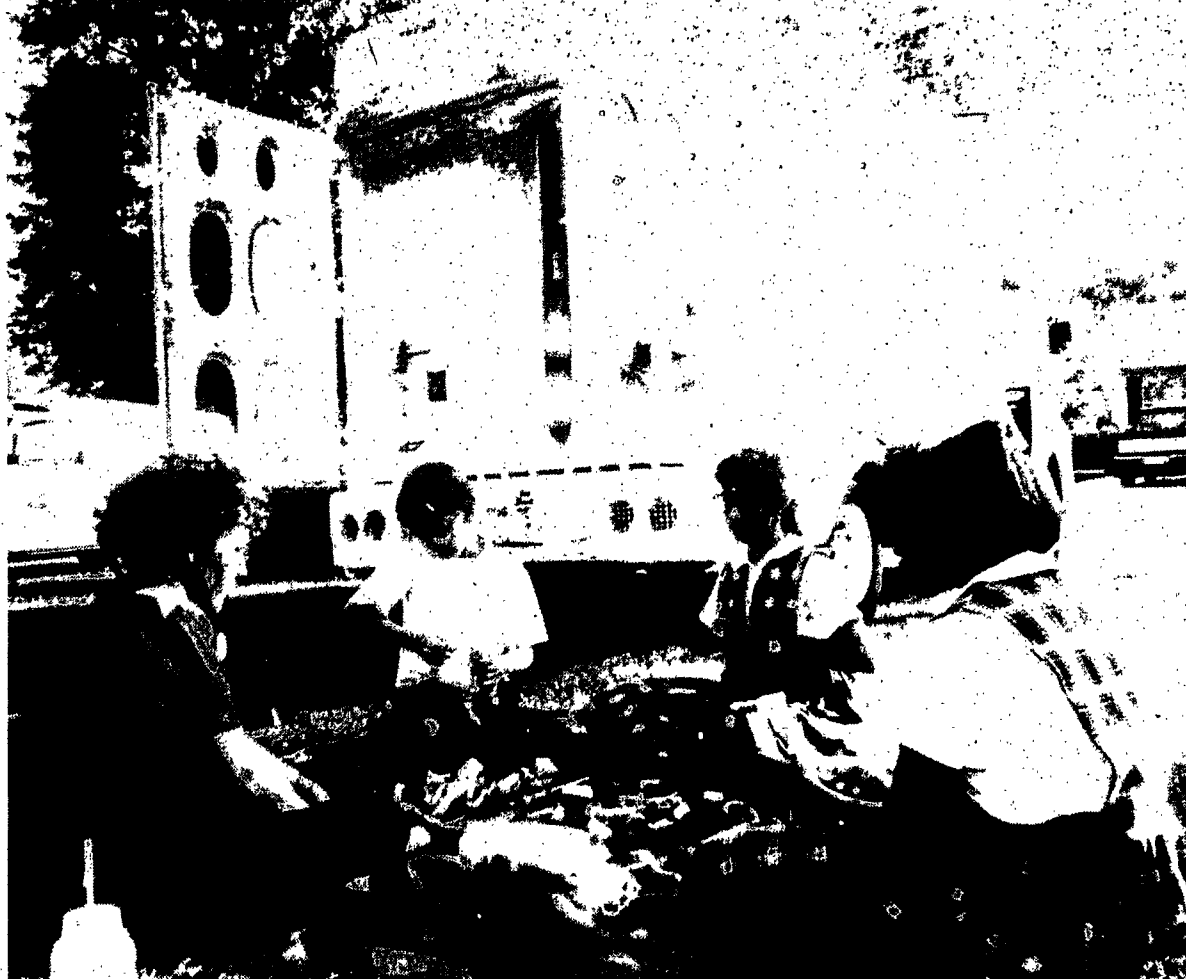

"There is no right way or wrong way. You cannot make a mistake," she told the students Friday, as they created art objects from common items.

"The idea is that it is possible to take something we see all the time and make it into something fun, unique and creative," she said.

One of the Bay Catholic students who visited the truck Friday said, "This is the coolest unit I've ever seen," according to Daughtry.

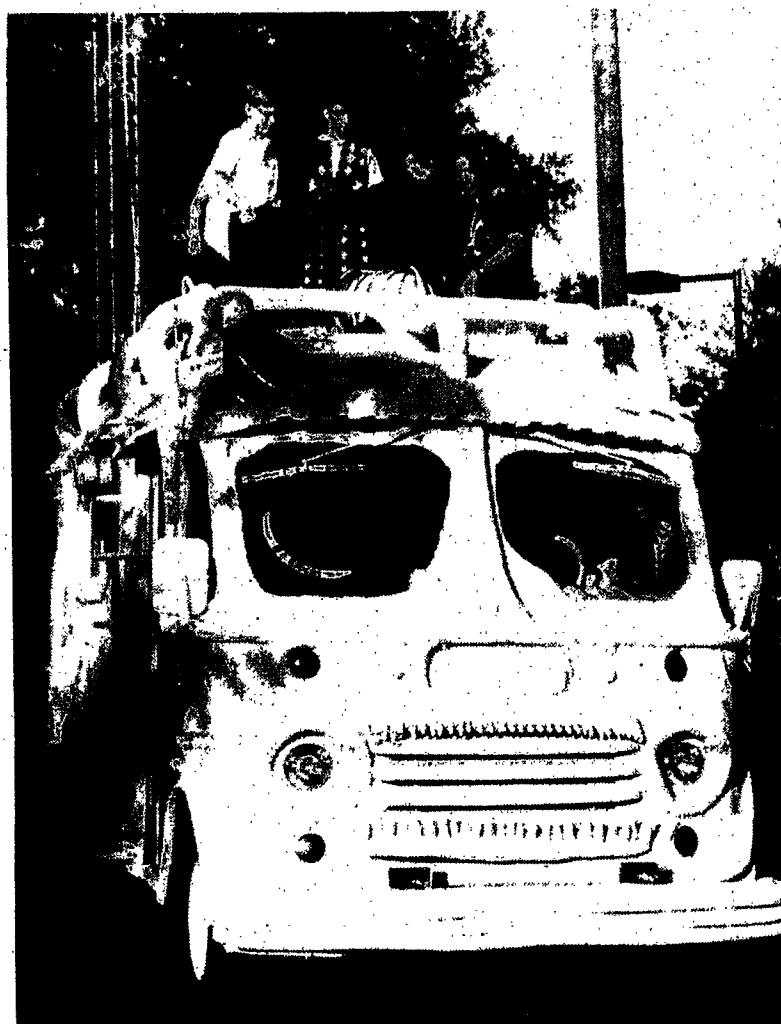

"I just loved the word 'unit'. So, now I tell people this is my base unit and the world is my home," she said.

After leaving Bay St. Louis Saturday, Daughtry and UMO were headed to New Orleans on their way West.

'Leave Pack Behind' is Cancer Society's '89 Smokeout theme

"Leave the Pack Behind" is the theme of the 1989 Great American Smokeout on Nov. 16. Once again, the American Cancer Society, Mississippi Division Inc., will be encouraging smokers across the state to set aside cigarettes for 24 hours. Dippers and chewers are also asked to drop their habits for the day.

Give yourself the chance of a lifetime.

This year, the Smokeout turns 13, which could prove lucky for those trying to quit. Last year's Smokeout was the lucky charm for approximately 5.4 million people, or 10.7 percent of the nation's smokers, who gave up cigarettes for 24 hours. One to three days later, 3.4 million of those people were still not smoking.

"The Great American Smokeout is a nationwide celebration featuring rallies, races, athletic events, contests, and more. In short, the goal is to work a little magic to help smokers quit and stay quit."

"Mississippians from every walk of life are expected to join in the fun by 'adopting' family members, friends and co-workers and helping them to quit, even if just for 24 hours," said Mrs. Betty Lou Jones, public information chairman for the Mississippi Division.

In 1989, 390,000 people are expected to die from smoking and smoking-related causes. It is estimated there will be 155,000 new cases of lung cancer this year.

Smoking is responsible for 87 percent of lung cancer cases, and while the overall five-year survival rate for cancer is about 40 percent, it is only 10 percent for lung cancer.

The goal of the 1989 American Cancer Society's Great American Smokeout is to help at least one in every five smokers (20 percent) to give up cigarettes for the 24-hour period.

For copies of the American Cancer Society's "Quit Tips," or for more information about quitting smoking or activities for the 1989 Great American Smokeout on Nov. 16, contact the American Cancer Society office at 1-800-872-4234, or call the American Cancer Society's Cancer Response System (CRS) at 1-800-ACS-2345.

SSC Key Club members learn to live Golden Rule

Special to the Echo
Key Club? A music group? Hardly.

Key Club is the largest high school service group in the world. Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, Key Club seeks to put young people in service to others, working with people, for people, in their schools, in their churches and in their communities.

The SSC Key Club is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Gulfport. These Kiwanians take an interest in the service projects of Stanislaus, often working together.

In October, the Kiwanis Club held a citywide cleanup; the SSC Key Club worked with them in this effort.

Some of the St. Stanislaus projects involve prayer services monthly for the students as well as for the residents of Miramar Nursing Home. The club sponsored a back-to-school dance for the students, treated new sixth graders to a welcome barbeque and collected money for the victims of Hurricane Hugo.

Groups that offer monthly service activities involve the elderly, shut-ins, retarded children, orphans, even the Navajo missions in Arizona. Each week sees Key Clubs involved in at least one service project.

Is there a payoff other than the immediate benefit of cleaning up a beach or bringing a smile to an elderly person's face at bingo?

Mark Distefano, SSC Key Club president, thinks so. "Key Club gives a young person a sense of power, a feeling that with a little time and effort, he can change things, maybe not the world, but the world around him, and that's a start."

Brother John, faculty advisor, sees the organization as the heart of the Christian school. "When young people serve others, they carry out the Golden Rule. Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Key Club is also an education. The young people learn about conditions in their community, about social problems that need to be addressed. More importantly, they learn that there are solutions, that with a little generosity and time, their world can become a better place.

Key Club members host barbecue for SSC sixth graders.

Key Club student named

St. Stanislaus Key Club member for the month of October is senior Johnny LaBruzzo.

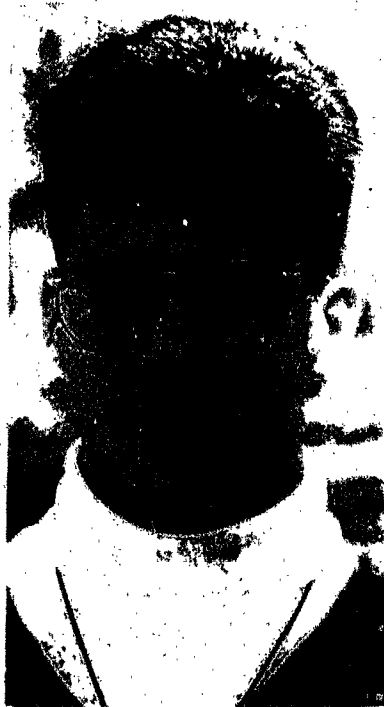

He was recognized for the special honor as a result of his leadership in working with the elderly at Miramar Nursing Home in Pass Christian, where he conducts monthly bingo and prayer services.

He also took part in the Key Club district rally where he won the Sandy Ninger Award. LaBruzzo, the son of Mrs.

Agnes Cannizzaro of Metairie and John LaBruzzo of New Orleans, has lettered in varsity football and track.

He is senior class secretary, a varsity cheerleader, and a member of S.A.D.D. (Students Against Driving Drunk).

The St. Stanislaus Key Club is sponsored by the Gulfport Kiwanis Club, and the moderator of the key club is Brother John Hotstream.

The nation of Monaco, on the French Riviera, is smaller than Central Park in New York. Monaco is composed of 370 acres. Central Park has 840 acres.

The only member of the British House of Commons who is not allowed to speak is the man called the Speaker of the House. Duffel bags are named after the town of Duffel, Belgium, where they were first made.

The largest body of fresh water in the world is Lake Superior.

The dollar sign originated from taking the abbreviation of the United States—the U. and the S.—and placing one on top of the other. Later, the bottom of the "U" was dropped to form the present design of the dollar sign.

And, here's another interesting fact...Auto World is Hancock County's most complete one-stop, car-care center. Whether your automotive needs are tires, batteries at wholesale price, auto parts, wheel alignment, muffler or exhaust work, maintenance or general repair work, your most convenient and reasonably priced car-care center is Auto World on Hwy. 90 near the Bay-Waveland city line.

Rejoicing with God

Do you remember the unbridled glee of the astronomers and other space scientists as Voyager 2, the geriatric spacecraft, streaked through space toward its first-of-a-kind rendezvous with the titanic planet Neptune? Kids in a candy store do not display any greater anticipation, eagerness or exuberance.

Originally built and launched 12 years ago to explore Jupiter and Saturn, the one-ton automated craft was coaxed to move on toward Uranus after using the centrifugal slingshot effect to speed off Jupiter in 1979 toward Saturn, then off Saturn in 1981 toward Uranus.

Voyager 2's obituary had been written long before then, but the mighty space mite refused to cooperate. The already considerable glee of the astronomers burst into uncontrollable spasms when they learned that their geriatric wonder had drawn a bead on Neptune and was about to outperform any space vehicle in history.

Holding their collective breaths as the craft zoomed toward Neptune at a dizzy speed about 20 times faster than a rifle bullet, the scientists howled when crystal clear pictures began to reach them from the dark, frigid reaches of space 2.8 million miles away. Their joy multiplied as the photo inventory grew.

Media hounds scented an epic story in the making. No prime-time slots, no front-page space was spared as interviewers, commentators and analysts vied with each other to put out the best coverage. The astronomers themselves spoke in lyric phrases of the space robot's transit, savoring each moment of the dream flight.

"Remember, where your treasure is, there your heart is also" (Mt. 6:21) comes quickly into mind. We will not belabor the extremely full and succinct piece of wisdom which Jesus gave us when he told us where to pinpoint the tendency of our heart. Yet, the wisdom is so great and the insight so clear that one can hardly resist using it to shed light on the epic of Voyager 2.

We cannot fault the space scientists for being so overjoyed at their magnificent moment in the sun and beyond the sun. It is their due, and the object of their rejoicing, the universe, shows forth the power and glory of our immortal, all-powerful God.

"The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament proclaims his handiwork. Through all the earth their voice resounds, and to the ends of the world, their message" (Ps. 19:2 & 5).

We need ask but one additional question of the space scientists: Do you rejoice as much in the origins of creation itself as you do in your marvelous little space explorer which you have succeeded in sending to the darkness outside the solar system?

To enlarge the question a bit, do you show the same enthusiasm for both your amazing space robot and the Master whose awesome touch is so obvious in Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, the sun, the Milky Way and the billions of star-studded galaxies which periodically interrupt the incredibly vast reaches of space?

As for us more pedestrian human beings who do not know much about the universe nor understand the subtleties of its physical laws, we, too, have our own work, hobbies or interests in which we find great enjoyment and excitement. The same question remains for us to answer out of our own context.

Do we rejoice more in our work, in our hobbies or interests than we rejoice in the Master who made all these things possible? We have every reason and every right to be excited about our life, our friends, our work and our hobbies. All the more do we have every reason and right to rejoice in the Master who made it all.

Christ Episcopal
Harvest Dinner
is tonight

Enjoy an early Thanksgiving dinner tonight at Christ Episcopal's Virginia Hall from 5 until 8 p.m.

The traditional menu of turkey or ham, cornbread dressing with gravy, spinach Florentine, Effie McCulloch's cranberry relish, Waldorf salad and hot rolls will be prepared by the women of Christ Episcopal Church. Kim Debenport is chairman.

Donation for the meal is five dollars and take-outs are available.

Proceeds from the annual event are used to fund charitable projects.

ON THE BIBLE

By Minister
Charlie Buckley

Hold your horses

The old man and his wife couldn't carry a tune in a bucket with the lid closed tight, but, oh how they loved to sing...even if it was off key and as some had put it, "They sound like two alley cats fighting over scraps!"

Many were saying that the worship services were growing into an undignified assembly because of their singing and the old man's constant 'amening' the preacher during the sermon. "They were simply just getting too involved in the services."

Several of the more dignified members got together and decided to pay them a visit to let them know how the "church" felt about their singing and 'amening' during the services. When they pulled into the drive way, one of them said, "Look at that shack they call a home. Why, the roof has holes in it, the windows are broken, the back porch has fallen in, and the grass needs cutting and the bushes need trimming. This place is an eyesore to the community and a disgrace to the church."

As they got out of the car they could hear, as one put it, "the cats fighting," out in the field. The Jones' were plowing their field and singing to the top of their lungs. Though the committee thought it below their dignity, they finally decided to walk into the field with their fine clothes to talk to the couple.

As they came closer, the couple quit singing and plowing and waited on their guest. "We sure are thankful for ya'll coming out here to see us," they said.

The spokesman for the committee said, "Brother Clem, we came out here to talk to you about the way you and your wife live and your singing and conduct during services. Not meaning any offense, but your property is not very well kept up, and ya'll just can't sing very well. We would appreciate it very much if you would try to keep your place a little cleaner and try not to sing so loud in church, because frankly, your singing and 'amening' is disrupting our services."

"We're sorry," the couple replied, "It's just that we've been in such a bind since Sattie's last surgery. We just can't seem to find enough money to pay the doctors, hospital, medicine, utilities and other expenses and have enough to fix our old shack too. We'll try to get our yard cleaned up and our house fixed as soon as possible."

"About our singing, it's just that when we look at that old shack that we live in, realizing that it could fall in at any time; and then stop to think about the mansion that God has for us in heaven, we just can't help but start singing. And when we look at these old clothes that we wear and stop and think about them pearly white robes that God has for us, well, it's kinda hard not to lift our voices in praise to our Lord."

"You fellows see this old hat and Sattie's old floppy bonnet, well, when we stop and get to thinking about that beautiful crown that God has for us, well, it's awful hard to keep from raising our voices in song and singing about the wonderful grace, love, mercy, forgiveness and salvation that is in Christ Jesus our Lord. Ya'll know what we mean, don't you?"

"As a matter of fact," they said, "would ya'll mind holdin' our horses...cause we sure do feel like singing right now."

The committee left them right there, singing away at the top of their lungs. As they were walking back to their car, they heard the old couple singing, "There's a mansion now empty, just waiting for me, at the end of life's troublesome way."

One of the men said to the rest, "You know their singing isn't really all that bad."

One of the ladies said, "I've never really realized how sweet their voices sound, and I've never noticed the beautiful smiles that the Jones' display while they sing."

Another said, "Isn't it amazing how we sometimes get our priorities out of order. I feel so embarrassed; I've been in the church for 50 years and preaching for 30 and I've never heard a more enlightening message than the one these two have just preached. Thank God for his wonderful servants."

Could it be that the majority of our problems might stem from our desire to be on the committee, instead of seeking the things that are above? Colossians 3:1-4.

After all, doesn't Jesus give us the promise of meeting our needs? Matthew 6:33; "But seek ye first his kingdom, and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you." Maybe we need to learn to hold our horses and stop and think about what God has done, is doing and will do in my life.

Mississippi Baptists to convene Nov. 13-15

"Celebrating the Past...Capturing the Future" is the theme of the 1989 Mississippi Baptist Convention Nov. 13-15 at the First Baptist Church, Jackson.

The program begins with a call to worship by the Mississippi Singing Churchmen at 6:45 p.m., Nov. 13 after a 6:30 concert by that group.

Speakers for the convention, which runs five sessions, closing at noon on Nov. 15, include Don Wilton, Bill O'Brien, Bill Causey, Jim Futral, Tommy Vinson and E. V. Hill.

This year's convention will consider adoption of a $19 million Cooperative Program budget and will elect a new convention president. Futral has served two one-year terms, the traditional maximum.

Moran named to National Americanism Council

Bill Moran, a member of Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post 139 in Bay St. Louis, has been appointed vice chairman of the National Americanism Council by National Commander Miles Epling for 1989-90.

The national executive committee confirmed the appointment at its regular meeting in Indianapolis on Oct. 18.

The purpose of the American-ism Council is to inspire patriotism and good citizenship through patriotic observances, including patriotic and civic instructions in schools and assisting in the education of aliens.

Youth activities include Boys State, Scouts, oratorical contests, school awards, baseball, flag etiquette and other similar community services. A list of available scholarships is provided through the "Need a Lift" Program.

Garfield Reading Club offers picture puzzles

Can you find all the hidden pictures in the puzzle? Garfield has a puzzle for you this week during the Garfield Reading Club, sponsored by the Hancock County Public Library System.

The purpose of the program is to encourage children and their parents to visit and use public library resources during the school year. Studies indicate that reading programs contribute substantially to help children maintain and improve reading skills.

Participating children must visit the library at least 10 times before Dec. 15, check out books on their reading level and have their visitor's log stamped with Garfield's paw print.

Those completing 10 visits to the library during the program will be presented a certificate on December 15.

Further information is available by calling the City-County Public Library at 467-5282, the Kiln Library at 255-1724 and the Waveland Library at 467-9240.

The Garfield Reading Club Schedule of Activities Hancock County Library System

Week 10, Nov. 6-11	Can you find all of the hidden pictures in this week's puzzle? Don't forget your paw stamp on your visitor's log.
Week 11, Nov. 13-18	Pick up a Thanksgiving craft sheet this week. How many paw prints do you have?
Week 12, Nov. 20-15	All libraries closed this week. Happy Thanksgiving.
Week 13, Nov. 27-Dec. 2	Do you like jokes? Get a joke sheet at the library.
Week 14, Dec. 4-9	The last week of the Garfield Club! Get some books, a paw print and an activity sheet for Christmas.
Week 15, Dec. 11-15	This is it! Come and get your certificate if you have enough paw prints on your visitor's log. Garfield wishes you a Merry Christmas.

Autumn gardening—good for the mind as well as the yard

Conservation is defined as making the best use of natural resources.

Now that autumn leaves are falling fast, we have an opportunity to make excellent use of them by converting them into compost for use in lawn and plant growth.

Composting can cut down on the cost of gardening, and will build a rich treat for soil when applied in the spring.

To build a compost heap, begin by clearing an area where the raked leaves can be piled. Sprinkle the leaves with a handful or so of nitrogen-rich fertilizer—or simply add a splash of household ammonia. This adds nitrogen, and by keeping the pile moist with water the leaves will compost readily. It is well to turn over the leaf pile occasionally. In a few short months you'll have crumbly compost ready for use when springtime arrives.

Raking the leaves has added rewards: The grounds will look neat and grass seems to stay green a bit longer. The other reward is obvious. Raking is good exercise.

Also, should we depend on the trash pickup to haul away our accumulated waste matter, we would add to the already over-loaded landfill problems.

Gardening gives us time for meditation and for the enjoyment of "getting close to nature." One gardener observed "this mechanical chore (raking) the repetitive activity clears the mind of mundane concern and helps to produce a state of pure concentration."

Concentration might well center on tender vegetation and house plants that must be cared for. Some may be protected from frost by heaping pine straw or other leaves around the plants.

We are informed by Dr. Bill Wolverton, a research scientist at the Stennis Space Center that house plants, when brought indoors, clear air pollution that can occur in poorly ventilated offices and residences.

Some plants lauded as effective air pollution purifiers include English ivy, philodendron, "spider plant," Gerber daisies, bamboo palm and chrysanthemums.

The stately aspidistra is popular as a house plant. It's thick glossy leaves will withstand heat and dust. It is effective as an air purifier. Dr. Wolverton said: "The study has shown that common landscaping plants can remove certain pollutants from the indoor environment."

What about branches and prunings? There is on the market a machine called the brush chipper. In some areas, materials such as these are chipped on the grounds and later composted or sold for garden mulch.

Now is the time to think and plan for the colder weather that is sure to come. Sturdy cardboard cartons might be accumulated to be placed over plants in the garden. Old blankets and sheets are also acceptable.

Another of our natural resources is in need of attention. Birds are coming in and need water and food. They pay their way by eating weed seeds and insects. Let's welcome them!

Gulf Coast Museum of Art features 'Art in the Young Nation'

The Mississippi Museum of Art/Gulf Coast is currently featuring "Art in the Young Nation: American Paintings 1830-1913," at the museum located in the Biloxi Cultural Center, 186 George E. Ohr St., Biloxi.

"Art in the Young Nation" will show through Jan. 5. Also featured at the museum is a photography exhibit, "An Intimate View," by Mississippi artist Birney Innes. Innes' collection of work focusing on the Mississippi Delta will run through Jan. 5.

The MMA/Gulf Coast is open to the public free of charge,

Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. through 5 p.m. and Sunday, 1 p.m. through 5 p.m. For more information call the MMA/Gulf Coast at (601) 374-5547, or toll free in Mississippi at 1-800/423-4971.

Williams named to Who's Who at Alcorn

Augustine Williams, a resident of Hancock County and a student at Alcorn State University, Lorman, Ms., has been selected to be included in the 1990 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Williams is a senior electronics major from Bay St. Louis. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory select students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

INSTALLATION AND TRAINING!

Jitney Jungle is pleased and excited to announce our participation in the new "Apples for the Students" program. In this program, all schools in the communities which we serve can collect your Jitney Jungle "pink" register tapes; then turn them in to us to receive Apple computers, printers, educational software and teacher training - all absolutely NO COST to the school or school districts!

Our "Apples for the Students" Program will be in effect over the next 28 weeks, from today through April, 1990. All Jitney Jungle "pink" register tapes submitted within these dates are valid.

We at Jitney Jungle recognize the growing need for computer equipment in all of our schools, and wanted to sponsor a program that would have the maximum benefit to this area's schools.

This program is unique, because Apple computers are overwhelmingly the choice of schools for educating students.

It's easy as 1-2-3:

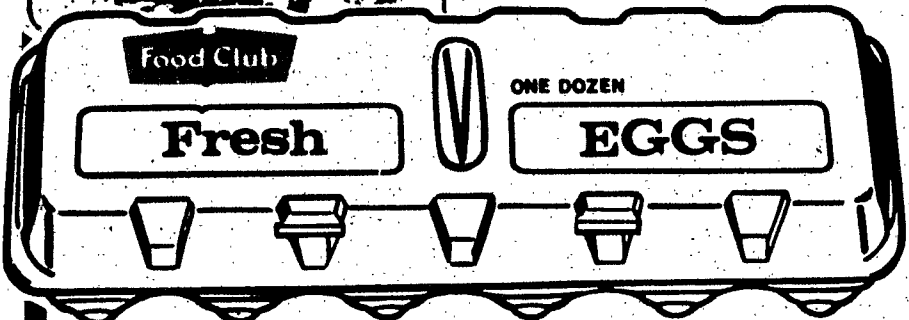

1. Collect Jitney's "pink" register tapes.
2. Donate tapes to the school of your choice.
3. Jitney will ship a FREE computer directly to the school at no cost.
